ASSIST™ Software Frequently Asked Questions General

Are there any potential issues I might experience having multiple ASSISTS products loaded on the same computer??

Some ASSIST products share the same tables within a single database. Over time, some ASSIST tables may change and the tables that are shared must be updated to the same version as one another. When you open your ASSIST program, you will see a notification window that will inform you if your database requires an update and you will be walked through the auto-update process. If something is interfering with the auto-update process, you may need to download and apply the update manually.
