

Using Pearson Early Childhood Assessments with Fidelity

Training and Professional Development Options

Assessment is an integral component of effective and accountable early childhood programs.

To be maximally beneficial, the assessment methods selected by program administrators should meet certain criteria (Joint Position Statement National Association for the Education and Young Children [NAEYC] and the National Association of Early Childhood Specialists in State Departments of Education [NAECS/SDE], 2003).

In addition to being developmentally appropriate, culturally and linguistically responsive, and inclusive of families, the assessment methods should be supported by professional development. Pearson offers several professional development options that will ensure your team is ready to use Pearson's reliable and valid early childhood assessments with fidelity.
