

Telepractice How-to Training Options for Speech Language Pathologists

SLPs are a sharing and helping profession! We're seeing all kinds of great chatter on listservs and social media about SLP telepractitioners helping fellow clinicians see this service delivery model in action and learn how to use technology options—often for free. We've made a listing for formal training options that we know about to help clinicians select courses that are relevant for them, but don't hesitate to ask in your social and professional groups for other colleagues willing to share their expertise. We're all in this together!
